when upon logging in. It is really easy to get it to run on Ubuntu. Click on System/Preferences/Sessions/Startup Applications and you can add this as a startup program. So your message is displayed once a day when you log in. A: If you're OK with a desktop environment, you can use Pantheon or MATE. Both will give you a lot of flexibility. Either of them will require some work to get used to, but the work is worth it.
