How can I use this in code MyDbContext db = new MyDbContext(); db.MyDbTable.InsertOnSubmit(new MyDbTable); MyDbContext.SubmitChanges(); I mean some thing like db.MyDbTable.InsertOnSubmit(new MyDbTable(db.GetConfig())); A: I have solved it. we have to get the value of the connection string from the config file. static string connectionString = ""; if (ConfigurationManager.ConnectionStrings["ExistingSqlConnectionString"] == null) connectionString = ConfigurationManager.ConnectionStrings["ExistingSqlConnectionString"].ConnectionString; ◆Google's secret plan to punish little publishers by ranking them lower," is how Gigi Sohn of the Washington Post put it in an article that concludes: "No one is against making Google better — we just object to it when people benefit and costs pile up for the rest of us." It may be true that users benefit from an efficient, neutral search engine that allows them to find information quickly. But if you combine that efficiency with rankings that penalize little-known publishers at the expense of the big media conglomerates, this benefits them at the expense of everyone else. Second, ranking is not a science. It is a conclusion based on data. It would be like trying to calculate the value of an algorithm by calculating what percentage of the time it produces
