ISCC (Inno Screen Capture Codec) Free Download

iSCC (Inno Screen Capture Codec) is a video codec dedicated to screen recording, producing high-quality outputs with increased compression rates. Furthermore, it features high processing speed and can be integrated with any screen recording application, including liteCam and CamVerge or various other applications that support AVI files. iSCC promises to deliver faster encoding speed, which is a big plus, since usually screen recording tasks require high resources. The quicker the recording, the less stressed your computer will be. This allows you to record screen activity in real time, without worrying about system load. Inno Screen Capture Codec can perform lossless compression with minimum quality loss, without resulting in smudged texts in resulting videos. For maximum compression rates you should opt for lossy compression. What's more, you are free to adjust the file size while exporting the video, by choosing the desired quality. One of its other advantages is that it provides full support for Video for Windows and DirectShow-based codecs, which enables it to successfully run on 64-bit operating systems as well. There is a component for each of the filters, namely Inno Screen Capture Codec and iSCC Encode Filter. The first is used for Video for Windows, while the second corresponds to programs based on the DirectShow Filter. No matter what you use, you are free to change the comparison level, the key frame and find the desired balance between compression speed and quality.
