novel approach to serotyping of hepatitis C virus by antigen-capture ELISA. Sera from patients with posttransfusion hepatitis C were examined by antigen-capture ELISA for the presence of antibodies (Ab) to the structural proteins of hepatitis C virus (HCV) using a panel of synthetic peptides representing different domains of the E1 and E2 proteins. The E1 peptide consisting of amino acids 242-429, corresponding to a domain containing the site of attachment to cellular membranes and the region containing the putative immunodominant epitopes, was able to bind anti-HCV in a serogroup-dependent fashion. This type of serotyping was performed successfully using a single Ab, antibody to recombinant HCV E2, to the E1 peptide. Additional studies demonstrated that all these Abs bound to
