As a great fan of 3d modeling, I was looking for such powerful, easy-to-use and a convenient application that can let me work with the vray format which .KennyJMA has sent me some pictures of what was supposed to be part of his New Balance shoes. He says these are not part of any other than the five frames that are pictured. The picture below is what was actually bought. Very nice work by the way. The two frames with the yellow and black stripes on the picture are from the original set. The two frames with the white stripe on the picture are not part of the original set. The picture below is a close up of one of the yellow frames with the black stripes. You can see the ring in the eye where I cut out the number. All the yellowish areas on the picture are also from the original set. The yellow frame with the black stripes was bought out before the ones with the white stripes. The yellow frame with the yellow stripes was the last to be bought out. This one had the white stripe in the lower left corner. Of the 15 frames that were made, four were bought out before the ones with the stripes. These frames are in my possession. Hope this is helpful to some. The frames can be bought here :
